

Dr. Anand Krishnan , Chair, Advisory Committee, UCHAI; and Professor, Centre for Community Medicine, AIIMS, New Delhi. He also heads WHO Collaborating Centre for Capacity Development and Research in Community-based NCD prevention and control. He is recipient of several prestigious awards including the BC Srivastava Award for Best Young Scientist in Community Medicine in 2000; MK Seshari Award for Research in Community Medicine by the Indian Council of Medical Research in 2008, PN Raju Oration Award by ICMR 2014; and more recently the Harcharan Singh Oration Award of the Indian Association of Preventive and Social Medicine (IAPSM) in 2015. He is a member of the National Steering Committee on Monitoring of National Program for Cancer, Diabetes, Cardio Vascular Diseases and Stroke. He has authored more than 280 publications. He is also a Fellow of National Academy of Medical Sciences, IAPSM, and Indian Public Health Association.