

Dr. Ramesh C Dhiman is a Senior Consultant, Former Scientist ‘G’ (Director Grade) at the ICMR- National Institute of Malaria Research, Delhi. He has 34 years of research experience in the field of vector biology and control, epidemiology of malaria, dengue and visceral leishmaniasis, climate change and vector- borne diseases. His field of research is climate change impacts on health, with an emphasis on vector-borne diseases, and early warning of malaria outbreaks using meteorological data and satellite remote sensing. Dr. Dhiman has served as reviewer of IPCC 2007 and IPCC 2014, also as an expert in “Expert meeting on Using climate and weather information for predicting and preparing for cholera and vector- borne diseases” at WHO Geneva (2019). He has contributed to the Prime Minister’s National Action Plan on Climate Change (2008), and two generic protocols for assessment of impacts of climate change on vector-borne diseases for SEARO, World Health Organization. He is expert member of the advisory committee on climate change with the MoEF&CC and one of the National Coordinators for DST Climate Change Network. He has also contributed to the set- up of DST- ICMR Centre of Excellence for Climate Change and Vector- Borne Diseases at ICMR- NIMR Delhi “(2017). Dr. Dhiman has around 120 publications in various peer reviewed journals, books and proceedings.