

Dr. Shyamala Mani, Sr. Advisor, WASH and Waste Management, Public Health Foundation of India (PHFI) and Advisor, MPD 2041 and Climate Centre for Cities has a Ph.D in Environmental Science from JNU and an MPH from School of Public Health, University of California Berkeley, USA. A national science talent scholar, a recipient of ICAR Fellowship in Agri. Microbiology and Fogarty International fellowship in Environmental Health, she has presented in several conferences and seminars in India and abroad. She received the UNCHS Global 100 award for waste management and sanitation in Bangalore in 1998, Plasticon India award for Plastics Reuse and Recycling in 2005 and recognition from UNU-IAS, Japan for Regional Centre of Expertise on waste management in pilgrimage places in 2007.

Dr. Mani joined NIUA in December 2012 after working at the Centre for Environment Education (CEE) for 25 years, as Programme Director (Waste and Resources Management). She now consults for NIUA under MPD 2041, is an Executive Committee member of the Climate Centre for Cities and at Public Health Foundation of India, Gurugram, she guides various projects for the Centre for Environmental Health. A member of several professional organizations, she has published in reputed books and journals. She helped formulate the Biomedical Waste Management Rules 1998 and 2016, Municipal Solid Waste Management (SWM) Rules 2000 and 2016, Plastics Waste Rules 2011 and 2016 promulgated by Ministry of Environment, Forests and Climate Change. Dr. Mani is a member of the Advisory Committee of the Understanding Climate and Health Associations in India (UCHAI) network, was a member of the Expert Advisory Committee for selecting SWM projects for Department of Science and Technology (DST), Chairperson of TIFAC committee for Technical Needs Assessment for Waste sector for UNFCCC under Ministry of Science and Technology and a member of Integrated Solid Liquid Waste Management under Ministry of Drinking Water and Sanitation. Along with several academic researchers in Asia, Africa and South America, she has completed the book Municipal Solid Waste Energy Conversion in Developing Countries: Technologies, Best Practices, Challenges and Policy published by Elsevier in December 2019, in which she is the Regional Editor for Asia. She is member of Rotary Club of Delhi Central, New Delhi.