

Dr. Shailendra K. Mandal is a registered architect and city planner who works as an Assistant Professor in Department of Architecture at National Institute of Technology Patna, India. He has been awarded Fulbright-Nehru Doctoral and Professional Research Fellowships in year 2013-14 to work on 'Water Sustainability and Climate Change Adaptation' at University of Arizona, Tucson, USA. He is an expert reviewer for the First Order Draft of the Working Group II Contribution to the IPCC Sixth Assessment Report. He organized a course titled "Transdisciplinary Climate Services to Prepare for Climate Changes" under Global Initiative for Academic Networks (GIAN) scheme of MHRD, Govt. of India. He also served as a Chairman, Bihar Regional Chapter of Institute of Town Planners, India. His work has been accepted for publication in Springer Water titled "Water Security in Asia: Opportunities and Challenges in the Context of Climate Change". His academic and professional works focus in the discourse of climate change, climate change adaptation, water security and sustainability, urban resilience and sustainable urban planning, especially on how the locally embedded adaptation planning can be a driver to the transformation process of urban resiliency and sustainability.