

Dr Saini is currently serving as chest specialist at National Institute of TB & Respiratory Diseases, New Delhi. He has done his MD from King George Medical University, Lucknow. He has 17 years of clinical expertise in the field of interventional pulmonology, clinical drug trials, lung cancer etc. He has completed many projects under his supervision at national and international level. He also published his research work in many internationally acknowledged journals.